About the Authors

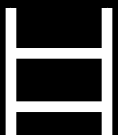

JONATHAN HASSELL is an author, consultant, and speaker on a variety of IT topics. His published works include RADIUS (O'Reilly, 2002), Hardening Windows, Second Edition (Apress, 2005), Using Microsoft Windows Small Business Server 2003 (Apress, 2006), and Learning Windows Server 2003 (O'Reilly, 2006). His work appears regularly in such periodicals as Windows IT Pro magazine, PC Pro, and TechNet Magazine. He also speaks worldwide on topics ranging from networking and security to Windows administration. He is currently an editor at Apress.

TONY CAMPBELL is an experienced Microsoft consultant specializing in the architecture and design of secure, Microsoft-centric business solutions. He also has vast experience in many other industry niches such as networking, collaboration, security, business logic, and disaster recovery and resilience. Tony has been involved with all sizes of businesses, from the very small to the very large, and has successfully delivered secure, reliable, robust solutions to more than 150,000 clients in his 18 years in the business. Tony started his career back in the 80s as a "green-screen" mainframe programmer for the British Meteorological Office, finally arriving after a long journey in his current role as a self-employed IT consultant and author.

Tony is a regular contributor to a variety of journals distributed across the globe and has been involved in the production of software manuals, user guides, white papers, hardware manuals, and training courses for many of his clients in the past decade. His love of writing has led to the publication of his fiction in a variety of small presses and magazines.
